GOVERNMENT ACTS TO KEEP MAIL MOVING

Washington — The President's good-will with Democratic members of Congress this weekend at Jefferson Island is important but not momentous.

It is important first as an indication that the President finally has realized that, between an incompetent personal secretariat and an adequate liaison with Congress, he has lost contact with his host on Capitol Hill and as a result is being subjected to a lot of needless undercover sniping.

He was repeatedly warned that rank-and-file members were becoming restive over their inability to get his ear and failure to be consulted on administration policies and measures. But he airily brushed this counsel aside.

The adverse vote on his court bill in the Senate judiciary committee, and the revolt in the House on the relief appropriation jerked him up short. It began to dawn on him that perhaps there was something to the warnings.

When Maury Maverick, the San Antonio New Dealer-plus, took the House floor during the debate on the tax-evision investigation, and declared that he and the rest of the liberals were "getting sick and tired of having things tossed at us without an advance word," the President decided that the time had come to act and act quickly.

Court Fight Maneuver

The weekend of good-fellowing is also important as a tactical maneuver in the Supreme Court fight.

The impressions and information Roosevelt gathers from his chats and conferences may determine his strategy in the impending Senate battle on the issue. At the same time he will put across the fact that he has absolutely no intention of throwing up the sponge and is determined on a showdown regardless of the outcome.

The opposition, with considerable skill and quite a bit of secret help from administration floor leaders, has raised much doubt among the President's followers concerning his firmness on the court legislation. The weekend will give him plenty of chance to make his attitude clearly known.

The Chesapeake Bay event is not momentous because it is not a crucial life-and-death party confab.

Party Dissension

There has been considerable pontificating and master-minding on how the get-together may determine the fate of the Democratic party, may show whether there will be a split or the President will succeed in wooing the dissidents back to the fold.

This is a lot of day-dreaming. To begin with, inner party dissension is not solved at picnics. The differences that separate the President and his Democratic foes are too fundamental and deep to be patched up at a few days of open-air fraternizing.

Secondly, he has no desire to make peace with them. Three months ago he might have. Today a strong personal feeling bars that. Privately the President has become very bitter toward the bolters.

If they want to split off from the party that is okay with him. In fact, the sooner they do so the better he will like it. It would clear the political picture and give him a freer hand in fighting back. He is firmly convinced that their defection will no more break up or injure the Democratic party than the bolt of Al Smith, Jim Reed, et al. last year.

Roosevelt and his political master minds believe that Bailey of North Carolina, Wheeler of Montana, Van Nuys of Indiana, Burke of Nebraska and the other oppositionists, do not represent either party or popular opinion in their states or the country at large, and that if it comes to a test of strength they will take the count.

The President now welcomes such a test. That explains this stiff-necked attitude toward suggestions that he drop the court fight, and his statement to intimates that if he is locked in the Senate he will renew the issue when Congress convenes in January, and force it into next year's congressional elections.

Whether he is right or wrong in his attitude may be debatable. But that is the way the President feels—and the anti-administrationists know it. Which is why most of them will have "other engagements" this weekend.

Bachelor McReynolds

This is the season of the year when Justice James Clark McReynolds, bitterest foe of Roosevelt on the Supreme Court, becomes a most pathetic figure.

All of the other justices pack their bags the day court adjourns. Some of them have everything packed beforehand and get out of Washington an hour or so after the court recesses.

But Justice McReynolds, a bachelor, lingers on. He has no place to go. Sometimes he goes out to

OGLE SHERIFF IS UNDECIDED AS TO COURSE

Man Held in Eastern City Repudiated Murder Story

High Point, N. C., June 23.—(AP)—Word from Oregon, Ill., authorities was awaited today by Police Chief W. G. Fiddle who said a prisoner here signed a confession that he had killed his father, but denied killing Angelo Tarallo in Oregon in 1932.

The chief said the prisoner, docketed as John Bernard Gifford, alias Frank Travers, 26, a New York magical apparatus salesman, signed a statement that he had shot his father, Charles, with a shotgun after the father had threatened Mrs. Gifford.

Gifford, who said he was a native of Salem, S. D., approached an officer here last Friday. Fiddle stated, said he was wanted for killing four persons and wished to "get a few things off my conscience."

Denies Ogle Murder

The signed statement said, however, Gifford denied killing Tarallo although he was quoted earlier as having admitted the slaying.

Fiddle said the statement related Gifford was at an Oregon undertaking establishment to view the body of his mother, killed in an automobile crash, when the body of Tarallo was brought in.

"When I am under the influence of liquor," the statement said, "I am apt to connect these two deaths together, playing the principal role in the murder of Angelo, due to the connection with his death and the killing of my father."

Fiddle also awaited word from authorities at Los Angeles whom he had advised of Gifford's admission that he killed two Italians there.

Had Good Time

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Taxi driver Joseph N. Carnaggio is back home after a $625 trip.

Three weeks ago, he said, Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Smith of Watford, Eng., asked him, "How does one go about seeing the United States?"

"I sold them on the idea that a taxicab is the best means of travel in America," Carnaggio added.

The Smiths hired him to drive them for 21 days through New England, eastern Canada, and the mid-Atlantic states, he said, declaring:

"They had one of the best times an English couple ever had in America."

TRUCK CAPSIZES, TWO ARE KILLED THIRTY INJURED

Bearing Party To 4-H Homecoming At University of Illinois

Tuscola, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—Two youths were killed and sixteen others were injured today when a truck bearing 30 passengers overturned in a ditch on a state highway three miles north of here.

John Gaston, 22, who carried an identification card with a Carbon-dale, Ill., address, and Ray Vandevor, of Kimmunity, were fatally injured. Gaston died soon after the accident. Vandevor succumbed three hours later in Jarman Memorial hospital, where most of the injured were taken.

Gerald White, one of the injured, was reported in a critical condition. Miss Vivian Morrow, 14, 11, was among those seriously hurt.

30 Youths Aboard

The truck, bearing a group of 30 young people and adults to the annual Four-H club "homecoming" at the University of Illinois, left the highway and overturned after brushing another machine driven by Paul Donnelly, a farmer living in the vicinity.

Neither Donnelly nor Halie Lewis of Kimmunity, said by authorities to have been the truck driver, was injured. Lewis' small son, Chester, riding in the cab with his father, likewise was said to be unhurt.

Passengers in the truck were young people between the age of 12 and 18 from the Kimmunity, Carter and Salem communities, all in Marion county.

The accident happened on route 45, approximately 20 miles from Champaign.

Dr. R. C. Gillogly, Douglas county coroner, prepared to conduct an inquest later today.

Other passengers in the truck, most of whom received minor injuries, included:

Martha Hiestand, 16, Salem; Lucille Shafer, 19, Willa Dean Shafer, 14; Edith Sullivan, 16; Myrtle Lannon, 25; Gerald White, 11; Agnes White, 13; John Shaffer, 20; Ralph Rose, 16; Herbert Vandevor, 17; Arthur Meyer, 17; George Meyer, 20; George Purcell, 20; John Jurell, 18; Ernest Broom, 16; John Currie, 21; Robert Lannon, 23; Paul Shaver, 18; Ralph Gerring, 19, and Wilma Shafer, 15, all of Kimmunity; Pearl Hite, 16, Salem; Ralph Morrow, 21, Luka.

GERMANY, ITALY QUIT CONTROL SCHEME TODAY

Angered Over British Refusal For Mass Warship Review

BULLETIN

Barcelona, Spain, June 23.—(AP)—General Sebastian Pozas, commander of the Catalan forces of the Spanish central government, said today he had ordered warplanes to protect a British freighter that had appealed for aid against an Italian warship.

Gen. Pozas declared the freighter appealed for protection within Spanish waters near this port charging an Italian warship attempted to stop her and conduct a search.

He said he did not know the name of either vessel supposedly involved.

The British merchantman, Gen. Pozas said, reported that the war vessel was acting as a unit of the non-intervention control fleet from which Italy withdrew today.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, June 23.—Germany and Italy quit today the international control scheme designed to stop the movement of foreign arms and fighters to the Spanish civil war.

They quit in angry reply to the refusal of Great Britain and France to join them in parading men of war before Valencia to warn the Spanish government: "Hands off our warships!"

Their concerted action left the non-intervention control scheme at a complete standstill, with no neutral patrol ships on the eastern coast of Spain.

In Berlin, there were unconfirmed rumors of a possible Italian-German blockade of this Spanish government coast-line.

German warships — she has twelve, including four submarines, in Spanish waters—steamed eastward into the Mediterranean, bound for an undisclosed place.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Great Britain, who once before succeeded in wooing Germany and Italy back into the non-intervention block of 27 states, was informed of Germany's withdrawal from the control scheme by Reich's Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop.

II Duce's Orders

A few minutes earlier, Premier Benito Mussolini had ordered Italy out of the control scheme because "there was no possibility of collaboration."

The withdrawal, it was made plain, was a direct result of the breakdown of four-power negotiations on Germany's demand for a naval demonstration off Valencia that would "impress" the Spanish government.

Germany and Italy blame this Valencia government for attacks on the Italian naval vessel Barietta, the German battleship Deutschland and—just last week—the German cruiser Leipzig.

Here in London, foreign office spokesmen said the Germans and Italians had withdrawn only from the land and sea non-intervention control scheme, not from the directing committee of non-intervention itself.

Technical Distinction

Informed sources, however, felt this was a technical distinction, since the land and sea patrol of neutral observers and warships which the committee has thrown about Spain is the foundation of its work.

They did, however, say that

Many Visitors to Come From Afar to Big Plow Centennial Celebration

Arrangements Being Completed For Friday's Festival

Noted visitors from all parts of the country will arrive in Dixon tomorrow to attend the Grand Detour Plow Centennial at Grand Detour on Friday.

One of the noted guests will be Alvin E. Dodd, president of the American Maritime association, New York. Mr. Dodd is the grandson of Lyman Merrill, who came from Vermont to Grand Detour soon after the founding of the village. Mr. Merrill was for a time a partner of Leonard Andrus, founder of Grand Detour and of the Grand Detour Plow company.

The stone used in the monument to Mr. Andrus, which will be dedicated Friday, was taken from a stone quarry between here and Grand Detour which at one time was owned by Mr. Merrill.

Also present will be Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Turner of Hinsdale, Ill. The stone house on the Andrus property in Grand Detour was built by Mr. Turner's father.

Other Visitors

Mrs. Helen Marrh Wood of Milwaukee, Wis., granddaughter of Willard and Sarah House, parents of the first child born in Grand Detour, will attend, as will Mrs. Marcia H. Parks of Woonsocket, daughter of Sophronia Weatherby, the first white woman to step ashore at Grand Detour in 1835.

Others who will be present will include: Mrs. Martha Throop of Woodstock, Vt., a niece of Leonard Andrus; Fred W. Potter, Henry, Ill., grandson of Willard and Sarah House; Mrs. Amber Baker Stiles, New York, whose parents were among the first settlers of Grand Detour; Frank T. Brown, who was born a mile from Grand Detour 69 years ago, and whose grandfather, Z. B. Turner, came to the village in 1837; Col. H. E. Myers of Chicago, who was born in Grand Detour in 1868 and whose grandfather came to the settlement in the early 40s; and Lucius B. Andrus of Indianapolis, Ind., a grandson of Lucius C. Andrus, brother of Major Andrus.

From South America

The visitor coming the longest distance will be A. H. Renard, manager of the South American branches of the J. I. Case company, who traveled all the way from Buenos Aires.

Preparations for the mammoth celebration went on apace today. Radio technicians visited the site and made arrangements for broadcasting the program from 11:30 a. m. to 12 noon, over 77 stations as part of the NBC Farm and Home Hour.

Dixon and Grand Detour hotels reported that they were rapidly being filled to capacity and preparations were being made to house the overflow in Dixon homes.

Grand Detour itself was putting on its best dress for the occasion. Lawns were being mowed, windows were being washed and everything was being done to have the village, already widely known as a beauty spot, in perfect order for the thousands who will be its guests on Friday.

Arrangements to feed the crowd have been perfected by all of the village's inns and hotels augmented by the ladies of the Grand Detour cemetery association; the ladies auxiliary of the Dixon Presbyterian church, who will have a lunch counter opposite the Joe Crawford property; and the St. Agnes' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church, which will serve ice cream and cake on the St. Peter's church lawn.

Funeral of Mrs. Annie Dow to be Held at Hinsdale

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Dow, a past president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, will be held at 2:30 P. M. tomorrow in the Union church, Hinsdale, with burial in Brownwood cemetery. Mrs. Dow, who was 71 years old, died late Monday in her home, 517 South Washington street, Hinsdale. Mrs. Dow, the wife of Frederick A. Dow, was active in women's club work in both Chicago and Hinsdale. She served as federation president from 1912 to 1914. During the war she helped organize the state council of defense and aided Red Cross activities.

Parole Violator Taken in Custody

Acting on the advice of T. P. Sullivan of Chicago, of the department of patrolmen, Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber, Deputy Sheriff Gilbert Finch and Patrolman Harry Jones today at noon took in custody Jesse Henson, 51, who resides west of the city on Crosby avenue. Henson was taken to the county jail where he is being held as a parole violator, awaiting the arrival of an officer who is expected to return him to the Menard penitentiary.

Henson, according to statements he made to the officers, was originally sentenced to a term of from one year to life on a burglary and larceny charge in southern Illinois, and was committed to the Menard penitentiary. After serving 18 months of his sentence, he succeeded in obtaining his parole. He has been married about a year, the officers stated, and was living on Cropsey avenue with his wife, and was employed in a Sterling manufacturing plant. The officers stated that his wife was unaware of the fact that her husband was a parole convict.

Chief Van Bibber notified the parole department at Chicago of Henson's apprehension immediately following his arrest.

Striking Women Employees Refuse Return To Work

Alton, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—Striking women employees of Codd Frocks, Inc., refused to return to work today as they had been requested by Meyer Perlestein, regional director of their union, the international ladies' garment workers.

Perlestein said the strike was unauthorized and no "legal demands" had been made on the company, which has a contract with the union. The women demand a minimum wage of $2.40 a day for piece-workers.

Urgent S. O. S.

The Dixon Chamber of Commerce today issued an appeal to citizens of Dixon for accommodations for visitors who will be in the city for the Grand Detour steel plow centennial celebration on Friday. It was stated that reservations already received have taxed the local hotel accommodations almost to the limit, which makes necessary the securing of additional accommodations for visitors coming from a distance to witness the event, made possible by the J. I. Case Company in observing the one hundredth anniversary of the manufacture of the first steel plow at Grand Detour.

Citizens having accommodations which will be available Thursday night for guests arriving for the celebration are urged to telephone their names and addresses to Miss Frances Patrick, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, at 26 at once.

STATE AUDIT OF I. C. TAX VOTED BY HOUSE TODAY

State Legislature is Speeding Up Its Activities

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—Authority for the finance department to audit the Illinois Central railroad's charter tax payments was voted by the house today, despite expressed fears the bill would permit an investigation of the University of Illinois or any other agency getting state funds.

The bill went to the senate, where Rep. Benjamin S. Adamowski, Chicago Democrat, said an amendment would be adopted limiting the investigations to the Illinois Central.

The house also voted a pension system for elective county officials, but recalled the bill for an amendment to exempt persons convicted of malfeasance.

Also sent to the senate was the Enge bill increasing from $2,500 to $3,500 annually the salary of the attorney for the East Side Levee and Sanitary District in Madison and St. Clair counties.

Two more labor bills went overboard as the senate struck from the calendar measures which would have set up a new child labor act and required annual reports to be filed with the secretary of state and the county clerks by employers' organizations. Eight other bills were also discarded.

The Burgess-Lantz bill permitting eggs properly graded and labeled to be sold within five days of the original candling without being recanded at the point of distribution was sent to the house.

Peter B. Kielminski, Chicago Democrat, opposed the measure on the ground it would put the Chicago egg-candlers out of business. Machinery for interstate co-operation neared completion with house passage of the Monroe bill.

WARRANTS FOR PICKETS HAVE BEEN ORDERED

Justice Department Hears of Interference in Ohio

BULLETIN

Warren, O., June 23.—(AP)—C. I. O. leaders today announced local unions were calling strikes in a movement which will result in a general strike in Trumbull county.

John McKeowan, a C. I. O. organizer, said the county, which has 120,000 population, would be "paralyzed by tomorrow."

The move is in protest against a court injunction restraining picketing at the plant of the Republic Steel Company in Warren.

The C. I. O. announcement said action of the locals was spontaneous.

There are 14,000 unionists in Warren.

The C. I. O. claims 10,000 of this number; others are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

It was pointed out that members of each union are bound by the action of the local.

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Attorney General Cummings disclosed today he had ordered the arrest of six pickets for allegedly interfering with United States mail trucks at Republic Steel Corporation plants at Youngstown and Warren, Ohio.

Cummings said he instructed United States Attorney Emerick W. Freed, of Cleveland, to "ascertain who interfered with the mail trucks" and issue warrants for their arrest.

Warrants, he said, were issued this morning against six persons, three at Youngstown and three at Warren.

Asked if the persons accused were pickets, Cummings said they were, but added that "it doesn't make the slightest difference to me who they are."

Names Not Disclosed

"Obstructing the mails is an interference that cannot be tolerated for a moment," Cummings said. "All mail that the postoffice department seeks fit to be delivered must be delivered. The whole power of the government is behind that proposition."

Cummings said he ordered the warrants issued last yesterday after he had been informed of interference with mail trucks at the two Ohio cities during the last two or three days.

He declined to disclose the names on the warrants until after they are served.

"PERIL OF INSURRECTION"

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Senator Lewis (D-Ill.) told his colleagues today that "the nation is in great peril" of "insurrection" as a result of prolonged labor strife.

Lewis addressed the senate a short time after Attorney General Cummings disclosed he had ordered the arrest of six strike pickets at Youngstown and Warren, Ohio, for allegedly interfering with the United States Mails.

By The Associated Press

Cleveland, June 23.—Payless paydays and smokeless stacks, serious things for worker and employer alike, stood forth today as silent but earnest pleaders for settlement of the 28-day-old steel strike.

It was payday at Bethlehem Steel's Cambria works in Johnstown, Pa., but there was no such payroll today as when the big mills were running at their 15,000-men capacity; for the plant is closed by martial law, and pay due workers is comparatively small.

What checks there are, said a company representative, will be mailed during the week.

Much more serious, however, is the situation at Youngstown, Ohio, where 25,000 men have earned no wages since May 26, and in the Chicago area, where Inland Steel's 13,000 workers can look forward to no more money until smoke pours again from the company's stacks.

Mediators Seek Thread

President Roosevelt's three mediators, aware of the great loss the strike is entailing each day that it continues—losses in pay, in profits and in the extraordinary policing measures which have brought state troops out in Michigan, Pennsylvania and Ohio—

DAILY HEALTH

THE WHITE RAT

By Dr. Iago Galdston

Science probably knows more about the anatomy, physiology, heredity and pathology of the white rat than of any other living creature, including man. This high-bred rodent stands pre-eminent among the animals which have served man in the study and conquest of disease.

Lately the white rat has rendered notable service in the nutrition laboratory. This standard laboratory "tool" grows 30 times as fast as man, and resembles him closely in nutritional needs.

By experimenting with "brother white rat," we may learn in the short space of a few years those facts which, if drawn from human experience, would require scores of years to gather. The white rat has taught us much of what we know concerning vitamins and mineral salts. It has served us in demonstrating the effects of diet on growth, fertility, freedom from disease, and longevity.

Because we have been able by dietetic means to improve the white rat in each of the above named respects, the conviction has been forced upon us that "we must not regard any race on nation's physical status as fixed, until we have found out whether better nutrition will alter it."

While experience has taught us to be cautious in applying the results of animal experimentation directly to human beings, there is enough of a common factor in the physiology of living matter to render certain conclusions applicable to all its accidental forms. Protoplasm (the fundamental form of living matter) is essentially alike in "mice and men."

We can take white rat litter mates and, by altering their diet while keeping them in identical environments, cause one to grow well and the other to be stunted, render one fertile and the other sterile, keep one free from disease and cause the other to be highly susceptible, maintain one to a ripe old age while the other dies prematurely. When we can do all these things, not once but many times over, we have more than adequate proof of the relations of diet to well-being.

Furthermore, these very experiments, in modified ways, have been tried and proved on other animals and on human beings.

The destiny of rats and men, at least as far as growth and health are concerned, is evidently largely dependent upon what they eat.

MAILING ROOM WORKERS, PITT PAPERS, STRIKE

Pittsburgh, June 23.—(AP)—Pittsburgh readers went without newspapers today. A strike of 150 mailing room workers prevented publication of the city's three daily newspapers, throwing 5,000 employees out of work.

The strikers refused to obey an order by the international typographical union to end the walk-out which started yesterday as a sit-down in the mailing rooms of the two afternoon papers.

Representatives of the publishers said the strike violated a wage contract which does not expire until next January 7.

The mailers later complied with a request of Governor George H. E. that they withdraw from the company property, and gathered in small groups near the papers. There was no organized picketing of the plants.

The newspapers are members of three of the nation's biggest chains—the Sun-Telegraph, of the Hearst organization; the Post-Gazette, a Paul Block unit; and the Press, a Scripps-Howard publication.

Strike Disavowed

Union officers disavowed the strike, which began late yesterday on the Press and Sun-Telegraph, and joined the publishers in declaring it violated a wage contract which does not expire until January 7, 1938.

"All members who fail or refuse to this order (to return to work)" the union warned, "shall stand suspended from membership."

The international secretary-treasurer was directed to refuse further dues or assessments from "any and all members" who do not return to work and the local union's charter was suspended temporarily.

Strike leaders could not be contacted for a statement. Publishers said the mailers had demanded increases of $1.20 a day work and $1.50 for night work. The existing contract provides $6.80 a day and $7 a night.

Asks Solution Of U. S. Farm Problem

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Solution of the farm problem was asked of Congress yesterday by Representative Noah M. Mason, Oglesby, Ill., Republican, who described as two commendable features of pending legislation soil conservation and the ever normal granary.

These features, he said, were advocated long ago by "Frank O. Lowden, the grand old man of Illinois."

Mason, referring to the administration's crop control bill pending before the House agricultural committee, inserted in the Congressional Record:

"The need for the ever normal granary, provided for in this bill, has been brought home to the American people very forcibly the last few years by the unpredictable droughts, the devastating dust storms, and the grasshopper and chinch bug plagues that have offset the puny, futile efforts of man to regulate production, and that made necessary the importation of $1,000,000,000 worth of farm products during the past year."

North Dakota had the lowest death rate—8 per 1,000 of population—in the United States during the last year. Arizona's death rate of 15.5 was the highest.

Fossil remains indicate that there has been little or no improvement in the mental equipment of fish for the last 100,000,000 years.

New Committee To Study Court Change Has Been Appointed

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—A Senate judiciary subcommittee has been appointed, it was learned today, to consider a proposed constitutional amendment enlarging the Supreme Court to 11 members.

Senator Andrews (D-Fla.), the author, said that in view of this action, he would abandon temporarily at least his attempt to achieve the same objective through an amendment to the Roosevelt court bill.

The constitutional amendment would provide eventually for a Supreme Court consisting of one justice from each of the ten Circuit Court districts, and a chief justice appointed from the country at large. It would allow voluntary retirement of justices at 70 after ten years' service and would compel retirement at 75.

Senator Logan (D-Ky.) heads the subcommittee. Other members are Senators Van Nuys (D-Ind.), Hughes (D-Del.), Austin (R-Vt.) and Borah (R-Idaho).

Logan and Hughes supported the Roosevelt bill, while the other three signed the committee's adverse report.

Senate And House Leaders Predict Work Week Laws

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Members of the Senate and House labor committees predicted today a maximum work day as well as a maximum work week will be written into the administration's labor standards bill.

They forecast that a section setting up a five-man board to fix "fair" wages for individual industries—in contrast to the "non-oppressive" minimum to be set by law—would be retained despite some opposition from both industry and labor.

House and Senate members split into separate groups after three weeks of joint hearings. Each committee will draft its own bill. Most of the discussion has centered around establishing 40 cents an hour as the minimum non-oppressive wage and 30 to 40 hours as the maximum non-oppressive work week.

A majority of the joint committee favored fixing very low, or eliminating entirely, any exemption of small industries from provisions of the bill.

More than 55,000 persons arrive and depart by train from the national capital in one day. Passenger trains arrive and depart on an average of one every 6 minutes.

Reports to the federal bureau of investigation indicate that every year 100,000 citizens are assaulted, 50,000 are robbed and the homes of 40,000 burglarized.

Celebration

Chicago Black Belt Goes Wild Over Louis' Win

Chicago, June 23.—(AP)—Chicago's Negro quarter suffered an epidemic of hoarse throats, dented fenders and wobbly lindy-hopping legs today.

From the time the loudspeakers blared "the new world's champion, Joe Louis!" until way past dawn, the south side section, populated by a quarter million members of his race, roared with celebration eclipsing New Year's Eve and Independence Day combined.

In less time than it took for the referee to count out James J. Braddock, hundreds of Negroes garbed in holiday attire poured into the streets to rattle trap automobiles and trucks to start a disorganized parade that paralyzed the district.

"An' t'ole you so!" became the by-word of the night. It was yelled from jubilant throats and waved on pennants and handbills.

"Some boy, dat Joe!"

"We all got a sho nuff champ now!"

Those and other impromptu slogans echoed and re-echoed through the Negro belt. Celebrants not content with just shouting, tooting automobile horns and dancing in the streets found other things to do.

Police received reports of window breaking and the fire department rushed companies through streets massed with excited humans and coughing vehicles in response to several false alarms.

At the 8th Regiment armory, hub of the festival situated about a mile from the scene of the Brown Bombers' triumph, several thousand dancers crowded into the hall a few minutes after the end of the fight. They reinforced the few hundred who had listed there to radio reports of how their new king of the heavyweights was doing.

Two bands screeched tantalizing tunes that sent the dancers to a frenzied pace. Party clothes of colors a peacock never heard of flashed amid the sea of ivory white teeth and sparkling eyes.

Through this celebration and the one in the streets where hawkers sold photographs of Louis and pennants bearing his name a serious but happy throng of representatives of the law stood alert.

Twenty Negro National Guardsmen were on duty in the hall and scores of policemen mingled among crowds outside.

The celebration took several violent turns. Robert Rogers, 25, a Negro, was critically wounded in a shooting which followed an apartment party where, the police said, Rogers damaged furniture in his exuberance. Police hunted the host for questioning.

Charles Carter, another Negro youth, was shot by a custodian of the 8th Regiment armory, focal point of the celebration. Carter East, the custodian, told police he detected Carter attempting to burglarize the armory.

At 4 A. M. three stones were hurled through windows of a restaurant operated by Ed Klein, one of the fight judges. Klein attributed the vandalism to a controversy with a waitress' union.

Rare Ninth Century Bowl Purchased By St. Louis Museum

St. Louis, June 23.—(AP)—A rare ninth century bowl, of the type found in the ruins at Samarra, Iraq, has been acquired by the city art museum at a cost of $7000. The bowl, which dates to the Abbasid caliphs of a period between 838 and 883 A. D. bears a design of two camels, and is considered by curators as an important addition to the Islamic pottery collection.

A fifteenth century painting, "The Annunciation" attributed to Bartolomeo Caporali, also was purchased for $2000.

GRANDMA TAKES TO AIR

Connersville, Ind.—(AP)—Eleven-year-old Louis Disborough wanted to go up in an airplane. His family wouldn't let him go alone—and wouldn't go with him. His grandmother, Mrs. Julia Swift, 82, said she'd take him. It was her first flight.

Installment sales in the United States increased to $4,500,000,000 last year as compared with $3,600,000,000 in 1935.

Traveling Around America

MODERN MURALS IN CHILE

COMPLETELY disproving the idea that all is primitive in South America—a muralist of the modern school is shown painting a panel presenting a modernistic interpretation of jungle scenery for the Hotel O'Higgins in Vina del Mar, the "Blarritz" of Chile.

Last year Helen Treadwell, well-known mural artist from New York sailed on one of the weekly cruises to Peru and Chile, for a three weeks' vacation, little dreaming that there would be any demand for her very modernistic type of work down there. She proved to be a much mistaken young artist, however, for the Chileans, quite as chic and up-to-the-minute as their northern neighbors above the Canal, are quick to follow current trends and it was only a few days after her arrival that Miss Treadwell was commissioned by Don Sergio Prieto, the alcalde, or Mayor, of Vina del Mar, to paint modernistic panels for the million-dollar gambling Casino at Vina del Mar and for the new O'Higgins, leading hotel at the seaside resort—the latter furnished and decorated in the ultra modern manner of the newest and most exclusive hotels in our own country. During her stay which was prolonged from three weeks to more than a year, Miss Treadwell executed several murals presenting modernistic representations of Chile's scenery, her forest animals, her natives and the cueca dance, the popular "step" in Chile.

VAN ZEELAND IN U. S. FOR TALKS WITH ROOSEVELT

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium arrived here today for an informal conference on world economics which President Roosevelt said would cover everything from pole to pole.

Civil and military officials were designated to extend a ceremonial welcome to the visiting statesman and Mme. Van Zeeland on their arrival shortly after noon.

The tall, slender prime minister has characterized his visit as a private courtesy call incident to his receipt of an honorary degree from Princeton university, where he once was a graduate student.

It was an open secret, however, that both he and Mrs. Roosevelt regarded their meeting as an opportunity to exchange viewpoints on many important international subjects.

The 44 year old Van Zeeland, an authority on economics and finance, was expected particularly to set forth his views on Europe's economic and fiscal problems and to solicit the President's ideas on lowering international trade barriers.

ALARM CLOCK STOPS TRAFFIC FINES

Allentown, Pa.—(AP)—A businessman here uses an alarm clock in his store to avoid paying traffic fines.

He sets the alarm hourly, just five minutes before it's time to move his car from a restricted parking area. After paying $4 in parking fines, he decided it was cheaper to buy an alarm clock.

FIVE RAILROAD BROTHERHOODS TO VOTE STRIKE

Vote Will Be Taken To Force Intervention by U. S. Board

Chicago, June 23.—(AP)—The five operating railroad brotherhoods, resolved to force negotiations on pending wage increase demands, called upon their 300,000 members today to cast strike votes within 30 days.

Various union officials emphasized the primary objective of the move was to pave the way for intervention by the Federal Railway Board.

The ballots will be mailed to members within a week and the vote will be canvassed by union heads at a meeting here the week of July 26.

The brotherhoods have demanded a 20 per cent wage increase retroactive to May 1, 1937, when previous contracts expired. They estimated the pay hike would cost operators $116,000,000 annually and the back pay would exceed $9,600,000 a month.

Under the terms of the railway labor act federal mediation must be employed to the fullest before a strike may start and rail management change working conditions.

Demands Rejected

Several months ago the carriers rejected demands for revision of rules affecting hours and working conditions. Among them were proposals for elimination of time and a half for overtime, discontinuance of daily guaranteed minimum earnings and abolition of a requirement that train crews shall not be reduced below the number in service Jan. 1, 1919.

J. A. Phillips, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, said carriers had been stalling on demands submitted last Jan. 9. Declaring the strike vote "will not necessarily mean a strike," he said the roads "have prolonged things long enough."

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said railroads would be compelled to negotiate if a strike date were fixed.

Demands for wages increases have been presented also by 14 non-operating brotherhoods.

France's Vast Gold Stabilization Fund Virtually Exhausted

Paris, June 23.—(AP)—Virtual exhaustion of France's 10,000,000,000 franc (about $450,000,000) gold stabilization fund was disclosed today, indicating the gravity of the financial crisis which Premier Camille Chautemps' new cabinet has been called on to solve.

"The stabilization fund soon will be obliged to call for gold from the Bank of France," Prof. Charles Rist and Paul Baudouin wrote in their joint letter of resignation from the fund management, its publication disclosed.

"Already for several weeks the directors have been powerless to relieve the pressure against it. Our daily meetings are of almost no further use," they said.

Rist and Baudouin, who resigned June 15 from the commission appointed to govern the exchange equalization fund, explained today for the first time that they believed the plan of former Finance Minister Vincent Auriol to raise 5,000,000,000 francs (about $225,000,000) from increased direct and indirect taxes would be "insufficient to reverse the current of capital."

Because of the high cost of gasoline, between 500 and 1,000 gasoline motor trucks and buses in China have been converted to use charcoal as engine fuel.

The government of Ecuador has placed a tax of $100 on persons desiring to explore the public lands of that country. The fee is good for six months.

WHAT? ARE THERE STILL BOOTLEGGERS?

"Judge J. Leroy Adair served notice on bootleggers in this district today that from now on they can expect penalties 'a great deal more severe' than have previously been imposed in United States district court," says a Peoria dispatch.

Are there still bootleggers? Didn't we vote them all out?

ILLINOIS AN OIL STATE

Few of us think of Illinois as an oil state. Since recent developments in southern counties have been advertised, probably many persons have been inclined to inquire, How long has this been going on?

Fact is that in 1920 Illinois was seventh among the oil producing states. At that time production had been decreasing over a period of years. First notable production came in 1905. In three years the state yielded 33 million barrels. Then decrease set in and by 1920 the yield was only 11 million barrels.

Illinois also produces cotton.

ET TU, JOE!

Senator Joe Robinson, who maneuvered all the New Deal legislation through the United States senate, is speaking:

"You may laugh about a 36-billion-dollar debt hanging over the treasury of the United States if you wish to, but with all my refined and expanded sense of humor I find it impossible to laugh about such a thing."

Why, the old Tory!

"I recall the time when our armies came out of the bloodiest and most cruel war that ever was waged upon this earth to find a debt far below the amount the government now owes, and we worried about it then. But now nobody seems to worry about the debt. We spend and we spend and we spend, and there are some of us who vote for all appropriations and against all taxes."

Why, the old Neanderthaloid!

"Let us ask what would happen if another depression such as that which began in 1929 or 1930 and which continued until recently should strike the United States? What if our revenues from income should fall off? What if the sources of taxation available for the United States should dry up to any extent?"

"We owe an obligation to the government, to those living, and those who will come after us. We owe an obligation to the needy living, but we owe also the generation to come a measure of duty, to safeguard them against an unreasonable and excessive burden which may bring back upon them the sorrows, the travails, and the woes which we have so recently experienced."

Why, the old economic royalist!

THE SHAME OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

"Let it be from now on the task of our party to break foolish traditions," said Governor Roosevelt in his address of acceptance at Chicago in 1932.

Perhaps the tradition that the United States mail is untouchable is a foolish tradition. Perhaps the tradition that the United States mail will go through is a foolish tradition. Nevertheless, it has been built up through the years, and the manner in which it has been maintained always has created a wholesome respect for the United States government.

Nobody ever trifled with the United States mails and got away with it—until now.

Now that group of high grade public servants, the postal inspectors, have been told to step aside and to let the inspecting be done by a gang of hoodlums. What they say can not go through, can not go through.

How the men reared in the traditions of the postal service must burn in their minds and hearts at what now is being carried on. Their spirit is shown by one of them at the hearing in Washington, where a committee is determining whether or not the congress shall investigate the interference with United States mails.

Harry J. Dixon, acting postmaster at Warren, O., testified that a representative of the C. I. O. complained that food and clothing were being mailed into the plant that was surrounded by pickets.

"I told them there was nothing I could do," he said. "As long as there were stamps on the packages, they would go through. They warned me they couldn't be responsible for what the pickets might do to the mail trucks."

Pickets turned back a postman with a package containing clothing.

"If orders had not come from Washington not to accept 'abnormal' mail such as food and clothing, I would have got that package delivered," said Dixon.

"I'd have taken it through the picket lines myself and I'd have got through."

That is typical of the spirit of the postoffice department, and the country's confidence in it was not built upon fancies, but upon performances just as striking.

Is there anybody in the country who has taken any pride in any part of the government who has not felt a part in that tradition that always has clung to the ban on interference with United States mails?

What remains of pride in our government traditions? By a course of sneering, those who would break them down have been more or less successful.

No longer can the United States mail go along holding up its head. The shame of the United States government is that it has destroyed the tradition that nobody successfully can tamper with mails.

They can.

Band Stand
We have been hearing so many complaints about where the band stand is placed this summer that we really wonder why it is where it is. So far as to say, "Grace the bandstand might just as well be in Jerusalem as where it is, so far as folks on the main street are concerned. Anyone who lives near the railroad track these days know just what un-pleasantly biased are let out from the engines when they approach a crossing. There are three crossings within 2 blocks of where the bandstand is. When a train starts to whistle, no one, not even the players on the stand can hear the band. The first concert when the girls trio sang they had to stop and wait for a train to go by and start over again. The band is supported by the tax payers. The village board is supposed to work for the best interest of the taxpayers. That is what they are elected for. Surely where the stand now is, is not satisfactory. The stand should be placed where it will afford the most pleasure to the largest number of people. The school yard would be better and still better in the vacant lot of G. W. Ling. He has always been a public spirited man. Perhaps that lot could be secured. Then, too, there is the village park, true it is near the railroad but there would at least be place to park along the streets. Perhaps the street could be closed from the postoffice to Mrs. Ackerman's corner. Then, too, why can't the stand be placed in front of the bank. There is no business done there at night. We fully realize it should not block the street, but it would seem like there would be room enough to pass with it close to the walk in front of the bank. Of course all of these places no doubt have been talked about, but nothing done. It really should be placed at a more convenient place, where people could at least hear it if they can see it. The band, the director, the manager as well as the public would be glad for a change.

1. According to press dispatches Eugenia Solferescu, who conducts a matrimonial detective bureau in Bucharest and employs charming girl detectives to play upon the susceptibilities of engaged young men to see how faithful they will remain to their fiancées, says that every lover swears he is the soul of honesty, yet, if in discussing the crime news he shows constant sympathy for the criminal and is pleased and amused when they escape or beat the law, she has good reason to believe the police will some day be searching for him. Sounds like a mighty good test.

ENGINEERS SAY PRESENT TYPE MACHINERY O. K.

Doubt New Designs Are Needed For Farms Using Terraces

Urbana, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—The American Society of Agricultural Engineers' committee on machinery design reported today it recognized difficulty encountered with machinery built for ordinary farming methods but felt that with present knowledge of the subject no recommendations for changes in design should be made.

The report said many reported difficulties could be corrected or minimized by using the implement in question in a different manner, that is, the difficulties have been accentuated by improper use of the implement.

Use of older machines which are not as well adapted to the job as are other machines now being built is a cause of part of the trouble, the report said.

Modified Control Needed
Other difficulties brought about by the unusually severe conditions under which the machine is expected to operate can never be corrected by an economically feasible change in design, the committee observed.

In that case, the report said, a modification of the terrace or control measure is necessary.

The committee pointed out the additional cost of farming under some methods used for control of erosion may be a more important item than the cost of setting up those methods or the value of the benefits derived from them.

Two things, the committee reported, seem to be most important at the present time:

Use Study Urged

"1. Learning what tillage implement can be used most advantageously in preparing the seed bed on terraced fields and how they should be used to most efficiently perform their natural function and at the same time maintain the proper terrace cross section. Two-way plows and reversible disc seem to be the implements which offer the most promise of performing both of these things satisfactorily.

"2. Learning how row crops should be handled on terraced fields to provide the necessary control of erosion and at the same time permit the most efficient cultivation and harvesting of these crops."

The committee recommended a comprehensive study of the subject.

PROSPERITY IS SHORT-LIVED IS PROF'S BELIEF

Present Upsurge Only Prelude To Another Major Depression

Rockford, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—Prof. Edward Berman, of the University of Illinois, predicted today the present prosperity was a "short-lived flowering before another major depression overtakes us."

He discussed the "solution of economic problems" at the third day's session of the midwest institute of human relations sponsored by the Chicago round-table of Jews and Christians.

"We will always have depressions so long as we have a society which is thoroughly permeated by basic inequality," Prof. Berman said in a prepared address.

Admitting numerous accomplishments of the present administration toward a more equitable distribution of wealth and income, the speaker said that in relation to the urgency of the problem the results were insignificant.

"We will have economic insecurity so long as our society is uncontrolled and each individual is free to do as he pleases," he said. "Only by planning and control in the broad social interest can the insecurity which becomes so serious in times of depression be done away with."

The speaker said that while production had reached the level of 1929, there had been little reduction in the number of unemployed.

"Our 9,000,000 unemployed are with us because our population has continued to grow since 1929," he said. "The number of persons capable of work has increased by about 500,000 each year. That alone would account for about 4,000,000 persons in the employable population who were not included eight years ago."

The other speakers were Prof. Augustus P. Hodapp, of Loyola University, Chicago, and William Kix-Miller, Chicago attorney.

Jury Discharged In Griffith Case

Waukegan, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—The circuit court jury which heard the trial of Thomas Griffith, 19, on charges of firing the Shiloh Tabernacle at Zion, was discharged last night when it was unable to reach a verdict after five hours of deliberation.

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason said he would proceed for a new trial at once.

On the witness stand, Griffith readily admitted confessing he set the mysterious fire April 2 but denied the crime. He said he confessed in the hope of attracting attention to fancied wrongs to his foster parents by Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Apostolic Church which owned the tabernacle.

APPROPRIATION TOTALS EXCEED HORNER'S WISH

After Adjournment Veto of Many Bills Anticipated by Solons

Springfield, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—Preliminary surveys showed today that appropriation totals have been increased by the legislature over the all-time high figures submitted in Governor Horner's unbalanced budget.

No one would estimate today how much the increase has been. That can't be determined before a week from today, when the 60th general assembly knocks off work with sine die adjournment.

But a partial answer depends upon how much the University of Illinois is authorized to spend during the next two years. The university's bill was scheduled for its first complete airing this afternoon before James P. Boyle's house appropriations committee. Legislators returning from the Louis-Braddock fight wondered if another scrap would develop over the university's financing.

U. of I. appropriations in 1935 were $12,195,802. Like most of the state offices, totals are up this time.

The university now wants $14,799,632. That sum is provided in the chief bill under consideration, sponsored by W. E. C. Clifford of Champaign, senate appropriations chairman. It is $804,000 more than the budget allotted the university.

Possible Side Issue
University officials were ready to ask that the Clifford bill be approved without reductions. A possible side issue was that the bill disregard legal advice and was in "lump sum" form, without itemization.

The university's extra $840,000 would be only one of several additions to the governor's revised budget, which totaled $438,541,600 and was $3,385,098 out of balance.

On bills for constitutional officials and code offices, Boyle and Clifford have tried to compensate for increase by reductions in other items. But the senate and house, disregarding a few objections over increases since 1935, have persistently voted for the highest amounts and disregarded Horner's request for help in balancing the budget.

Anticipate Vetoes
Boyle said the big bills haven't been appreciably increased by his committee. But riding along with them are a flock of secondary appropriation requests, all adding to the budget's unbalanced total.

Those figures don't include the demands of school men for $300,000 for southern Illinois high schools and an $8,400,300 increase in the distributive fund.

And legislators also remind each other that, since the appropriations bills were delayed until late in the session, the governor might do some heavy after adjournment vetoing.

His Birthday

St. Wolfgang, Austria, June 23.

—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor celebrated his 43rd birthday at Castle Wasserlemburg today, in strange contrast to the pomp and pageantry of a year ago when he was ruler of the British empire.

Then his royal brothers led one of the most colorful of Britain's historic salutes to her monarch, the trooping of the colors; an empire was en fete in his honor.

Today his bride of a few weeks, the former Mrs. Wallis Warfield, for whom he abdicated his throne, was understood to have arranged a quiet private party as the sole celebration. The Duke was described as spending the day in "splendid happiness" with the Duchess.

London, June 23.—(AP)—A brief item in the society columns of British newspapers today was the only mention given the 43rd birthday of the Duke of Windsor.

The simple line, far down in the social column beneath the court circular, read:

"The Duke of Windsor is 43 today."

Others, all members of the federalist party, sworn in were Dawn Wollet, Peoria, lieutenant governor; Richard Armstrong, Taylorville, secretary of state; George Andrews, Forest Park, auditor; Richard B. Allen, Alton, attorney general, and Robert Clark, Oak Park, treasurer.

Speakers at the ceremonies were Bryan Keathley, Mineral Wells, Tex., national chaplain of the American Legion, and Edward Hayes, Decatur, past national commander of the legion.

The legion, civic clubs and patriotic organizations sponsor the Boys' state and the camp, continuing through the week, was designed to acquaint the youths with functions of city, county, state and national government.

Louis Proves He's Real Champion By 8th Round Knockout

BRADDOCK IS GAME TO LAST KAYO WALLOP

Brown Bomber Like Louis Of Old As He Flays Champ

BULLETIN

Chicago, June 23—(AP)—Mike Jacobs, New York promoter of last night's heavyweight title fight here, announced today he had signed a renewal contract with Joe Louis, the new champion, giving him exclusive rights to the Brown Bomber's pugilistic services for the next five years.

The contract guaranteed the titleholder, who knocked out James J. Braddock in the eighth round last night, four fights a year. It replaced a previous five year contract which had three years to run.

On the heels of that announcement Jacobs said he had signed a three year contract with Braddock which guaranteed action for the de-throned champion.

Jacobs said both fighters would see action because he agreed to pay them even if they didn't fight.

The promoter predicted Louis would be the most active heavyweight champion in fight history.

While he had no definite plans for a bout now, Jacobs said offers had come from Detroit and Cleveland, while New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and London were other possible sites for a fight involving Louis this year.

Joe Wants Max

Louis said he was ready to fight "anybody, anywhere" that Jacobs selects but would prefer first a match with Max Schmeling, the German who defeated Louis last year in New York.

Braddock, resting in a south side hotel, defiantly discounted the beating Louis handed him last night and declared through his manager, Joe Gould, that he had "no idea" of retiring.

Ten stitches were taken in Braddock's face, near the mouth, to close wound inflicted by the Louis lefts and rights.

Jim's face was criss-crossed with bandages today but he said otherwise he felt no ill effects.

Gould said "we plan two or three bouts as quickly as they can be arranged to get back in a position to challenge Louis".

Max Baer, the California playboy heavyweight, is first on the list of preferred Braddock opponents, said Gould.

Commenting on his fighter's defeat and the new champion's power, Gould asserted:

"Last night Louis would have beaten anybody, including Schmeling and even Jack Dempsey".

By Charles Dunkley

Chicago, June 23—(AP)—Joe Louis, only three years ago a rank amateur, today ruled the heavyweight fistic ranks of the world.

The 23-year-old son of an Alabama cotton picker, won the championship crown from great-hearted James J. Braddock before a clamoring crowd of 55,000 in Comiskey park last night with a murderous right hand blow.

That gloved thunderbolt climaxed a spectacular fight, ending with the cut and crushed champion being counted out, in one minute and ten seconds of the eighth round, after Louis himself had been knocked to the floor in the first round and hard pressed to overcome Braddock's courageous stand during the first five rounds.

The Negro's convincing finishing thrust made him the second man of his race to win the title and established him in the esteem of skeptics, who saw him fall a year ago under the flailing fists of Max Schmeling.

Year Younger Than Dempsey

Louis, the sour-faced dead-pan boy, is the youngest fighter ever to win the heavyweight title. At 23 he is just a year younger than Jack Dempsey was when the Manassas Mauler knocked out the giant Jess Willard at Toledo in 1919. He is the second negro ever to win the crown.

Jack Johnson was the first, battering aging James J. Jeffries into helplessness in Reno, 27 years ago.

Critics agreed today, however, the young Negro's hold on the crown won't be secure, beyond argument, unless and until he evens the score with Schmeling. The German, still the logical contender, may be matched to fight Louis in New York this September. Meantime Schmeling is slated to fight Tommy Farr, the British Empire champion, abroad.

Braddock, an old man, as boxing goes, and idle for two years since he won the title from Max Baer in June 1935, gave away eight years to the Detroit dynamiter, and could not stand up under that handicap. All he had was a courageous, Irish fighting heart and ability to "take it." He survived seven rounds in defending his championship, but the way he defended it brought

Career of Joe Louis Summarized by AP Fight Expert

Chicago, June 23—(AP)—Facts and figures on Joe Louis, new heavyweight champion of the world:

Born Ledington, Ala., May 13, 1914; full name, Joe Louis Barrow.

In three years as amateur, engaged in 54 bouts, scoring 43 wins and losing four to Johnny Miller, Max Baer, Clinton Bridges and Stanley Evans.

Won National A. A. U. heavyweight title in St. Louis, April, 1933, and turned professional July 4, 1934, when he knocked out Jack Kracken, in Chicago, in first round, receiving $50 as his share of receipts.

Engaged in 12 bouts in 1934 scoring 10 knockouts, two decisions. In 1935 won 14 bouts, 12 by knockouts and two by decisions; in 1936 won five bouts by knockout and suffered only defeat of his professional career—a knockout in 12th round by Max Schmeling in New York, June 19.

In 1937, knocked out Natie Brown at Kansas City, won a 10-round decision from Bob Pastor in New York and on June 22 at Chicago won world's heavyweight championship by knocking out James J. Braddock in eighth round. Recapitulation—35 professional contests, 29 knockouts, five decisions, one defeat.

thunderous cheers from the huge crowd.

The fight ended with Braddock lying helpless on the canvas floor of the ring. He was bleeding from the mouth, cut and battered. In the language of the ring he was knocked dead. He never heard the referee, Tommy Thomas, count the fatal ten over him. His handlers picked him off the floor and carried him to a corner where it required minutes to restore him to his senses.

As Braddock came out for the eighth round he was a worried, wobbly champion. But he walked into Louis' blistering fire. Louis shot out a terrific left hook to Braddock's mid-section. Another left caught the champion on the chin. His knees buckled and he began to sag. Then, in the next instant, Louis drove a right hand smash to the jaw and Braddock sank to the floor, rolling over on his right side, with his head resting on his arm. He remained motionless as the referee counted over him.

Louis' Big Moment

This was the moment Louis had been waiting for. He was standing in a neutral corner with a vicious scowl on his face. Instead of looking at the fallen Braddock, he stared with a sneer at Braddock's handlers.

It was the golden moment of an amazing career in which he skyrocketed to world championship glory in three dramatic years.

The crowd at first was stunned. Then the yells of the spectators suddenly grew into a roar, as row upon row of humans took it up.

Braddock, instead of boxing cautiously, started to slug with Louis at the beginning. They hardly reached the center of the ring before Braddock walked into the Negro challenger and drove a powerful right that just missed Louis' chin. Louis then opened with a shower of left and rights that caused Braddock to retreat momentarily.

Then to the astonishment of the spectators, the champion drove a right uppercut to the chin that dropped Louis as if he'd been hit with an axe. The blow, however, apparently landed on his Adam's apple, instead of on the button. Louis jumped up and backed out of danger before the timekeeper could begin a count. Braddock was unable to press his advantage.

The champion, in superb physical condition, continued to wage into Louis in succeeding rounds, showing no fear of the Negro's punches. In the sixth it was apparent that he was beginning to tire under Louis' bouncing lefts and rights off his cheeks and head.

Braddock Won't Retire

Braddock, through his puffed and bleeding lips, declared he had no intention of retiring, and hoped to meet Louis again. There was a gasp an inch long on the left side of his upper lip. His eyes and ears were crimson from Louis' blows.

The dethroned champion, after his 50 per cent share of the net receipts has been cut up, will be lucky to have as much as $60,000 or $70,000 for himself. But that's practically a gold mine, compared to the Braddock financial circumstances three years ago, when Jim began his comeback climb, and probably exceeds all that he has managed to clear since he won the title from Baer in 1935.

Louis, with a "cut" of 17 1/2 per cent for himself and associates, has now earned approximately $850,000 in less than three years of professional fighting. The Negro, whether he fights once or twice more this year, as Mike Jacobs plans, is certain to pass the million mark in his next bout.

FACTS OF FIGHT

Gross receipts for the heavyweight championship fight amounted to $715,400.74, co-promoter Mike Jacobs announced early today after a checkup.

This included $75,000 for the radio and motion picture rights, so that the actual gross ticket sale amounted to $640,400.74.

Jacobs said the total attendance was "about 55,000", of which 48,000 represented cash customers.

After deduction of state and federal taxes, approximately $115,000, the net receipts figured around $526,000. Braddock's 50 per cent share of this amounted to $262,000 and Louis' 17 1/2 per cent "cut" figured to be nearly $110,000.

Allowing $50,000 for promotional expenses, the promoters' profits were estimated at close to $100,000.

Former Aeronautics Commissioner Visits Dixon To See Hangar

Chicago, June 23—(AP)—Three former heavyweight champions, their faces picturing a strange and strained sequence of emotion, watched Joe Louis belt the crown off Jim Braddock's head last night.

As Braddock dropped like a plummet, Jess Willard nearly squashed his 270 pounds through a ringside seat; Jack Dempsey chewed a cigar into bits and Gene Tunney stared at the eighth round indicator.

Of all the former fistic celebrities, lured here from all ends of the country, titanic Willard appeared to be the most excited. He was in and out of his seat, bobbing like a cork on the water. One of the ringside police finally had to ask him to remain seated. It was Willard who 21 years ago wore down Jack Johnson, first Negro in modern ring history to hold the championship.

Dempsey, conqueror of Willard in 1919, squirmed in his seat, destroyed cigar after cigar with his teeth and muttered after it was over: "I still say Louis can't take a punch. But he hit Braddock with a 'bull'."

Tunney, cool and conservative, remarked: "You can't beat Old Father Time."

Here and There In Sports World

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Chicago, June 23—(AP)—Well, he was one grand, game guy anyway. . . . Whether you ever hear any more of James J. Braddock as a fighter, you'll always remember the great stand he made against Joe Louis last night. . . . There was more than one spot in which the champion could have taken the easy way out (and no questions asked) but he kept coming in for more until he simply could come in no longer.

Louis showed the boys a few things, too. . . . One is, you can't believe all you see in training camps. . . . There was nothing about the keen, sharp punching Bomber of Tuesday night to indicate the sluggard who loafed through his drills at Kenosha. . . . Maybe that was part of the strategy. . . . One fellow told us so, but we didn't believe him. . . . Anyway, Joe is the same hard hitter of two years ago and may be for a long, long time. . . . providing he isn't tagged again by Max Schmeling.

Schmeling is slated up to fight Tommy Farr, the British champ.

Braddock also may be persuaded to go abroad to start his comeback. . . . Promoters estimate Negroes comprised 20 per cent of last night's audience. . . . A minister was in charge of a special bringing 800 from New York's Harlem. . . . Old Jess Willard wears the same style of broad-brimmed hat—turned up in front and down in the rear. . . . Gene Tunney, who picked Louis, spent all evening rooting hard for Braddock.

Prior to the gathering at Comiskey park, the largest fight crowd spotted here was the one in front of the Morrison hotel watching Jack Dempsey get shaved.

Braddock's imported New York seconds—Ray Arcel and Whitey Binstein—received $500 apiece for the evening's work. . . . Harry Lenny, manager of Ray Impellitteri, engaged at the last minute to help in Louis' corner, drew down $250. . . . Louis not only is the youngest champion in heavyweight history, but one of the few challengers to go to the post a favorite. . . . The biggest hook-up ever assembled for a fight—125 stations—sent out the blow-by-blow. . . . All that glitter right behind the working press was merely the Hollywood film delegation. . . . J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, was Joe Gould's personal guest.

Jack Dempsey and his wife, the former Hannah Williams (you know, the Cheerful Little Earful) rushed to the arena direct from the Washington park races. . . . largest single bet reported was $3,000 to $1,000 on Louis. . . . Col. D. Walker Wear was the only member of the New York state athletic commission at the ringside. . . . Promoter Mike Jacobs, who ran the show, didn't have a heat. . . . He preferred to roam about the premises to see that everything ran smoothly. . . . Once in New York, Mike was tossed out of Louis' dressing room because he wasn't toting press credentials.

It was a tough fight for the press. . . . One expert went down with "shingles" a few days before the battle. . . . Another was picked for $120. . . . and many others (no names, please) crashed when the Braddock limb broke down. . . . King Levinsky was here and there greeting his friends and still insisting the London climate affected him "advers

Brain Twizzlers

By
PROF. J. D. FLINT

Here's a laugh for you. An insurance salesman came in and tried to sell the professor a policy—instead the professor changed the subject to Twizzlers and here's what he got from the salesman:

On a library shelf rests a three volume set of books, each of which is two inches thick from first page to last page with each cover one-eighth of an inch thick. A worm starts from the first page of the first volume and eats his way through to the last page of the third volume. How far does he crawl?

Watch out for this one, early bird, or the worm will get you.

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler

The friend who bought the pawn ticket for a dollar and a half was out a dollar because he had to pay the pawn broker an additional dollar and a half to redeem the two-dollar bill. The timid little guy was ahead a dollar because he paid a three dollar debt after starting with only two dollars.

By ARTHUR T. GUEST

Rochelle — George A. Rinehart, aged 50, of 428 North Third street,
prominent nurseryman and member of the firm of Rinehart & Wilkerson, barbers, is in a critical condition at the Lincoln hospital, believed to be due to a self-inflicted revolver bullet wound in his head.

Mr. Rinehart is believed to have in a fit of despondency attempted suicide while at work in his shop located at the rear of his home at 2 o'clock P. M.

The Unger ambulance was called and he was rushed to the hospital but little hope is held out for his recovery. Mr. Rinehart is especially gifted in the art of wood carving and is proficient in the manufacture of bird houses. He also perfected recently a model unit for city parks consisting of boulevard lighting, tables, chairs, benches, and fire places and this was displayed at the city hall.

Bradley Manning, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Manning, will leave Saturday for the Boy Scout pageant which will be held in Washington, D. C. from June 28 to July 10. He is the only Boy Scout going from Rochelle. Bradley represents Rochelle in the Black Hawk area. Friday a rehearsal was held at the Boy Scout camp near Elgin for all boys who are going to attend the pageant.

He will leave from Rockford Saturday and plans to be gone for about two weeks.

Maude Isabella Steele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Steele, was born January 23, 1864 in Rochelle, and died at the Lincoln hospital Sunday, June 20. She received her education in the Rochelle public schools and Wellesley college. She was a teacher in the Rochelle public schools and for many years in the Ray school in Chicago.

In 1921 she moved to Rochelle, and with her sisters, Mrs. Brundage and Miss Adelaide Steele made her home at 505 Seventh street. Soon after coming to Rochelle she joined the Presbyterian church, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Rochelle Woman's club and the Ladies' Friendly Society.

In all of which she was an active worker until her health began to fail in 1930. In spite of constant care acute arthritis developed which caused her death at the Lincoln hospital on June 20. She leaves to mourn her passing one sister, Mrs. A. B. Sheadle, and a number of beloved nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held from the home, 505 Seventh street on Tuesday afternoon of this week at 2 o'clock with Rev. Frank A.
Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian church officiating and burial

Nation's Affairs

Arbitrariness in Saddle

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University

Presidential arbitrariness, booted and spurred, is on the rampage in this nation. Mounted on the third horse of the Presidential figurative three horse governmental team, it is attempting to ride ruthlessly and roughshod over the principal constitutional guarantees that have been erected to protect this nation from just such a possibility.

The attack on the Supreme Court is only one case in point, although it is probably the one of major importance. Every reader will recall the original excuses given for the attack on the Supreme Court. He also knows how these were exploded by Chief Justice Hughes and others. He will also recall the Presidential figure of speech describing the three-horse team in which the President insisted that two of the horses, Congress and the President, were pulling together

while one horse, the Supreme Court, was thwarting "the legislative will."

A review of some of the facts regarding the actual working of this metaphorical three-horse team is instructive. Over approximately a century and a half the Supreme Court has, to use the President's expression,
"vetoed" acts of Congress 75 times.
In contrast to this record, President Roosevelt, in slightly more than four years, and up to the end of April, 1937, has vetoed 221 acts of Congress.
This is more than all the vetoes of Taft, Wilson, Harding, Hoover and Coolidge and is practically three times
the number of Supreme Court "vetoes" over a period of approximately 150 years. Had the Supreme Court thwarted the will of Congress at a rate equal to that of President Roosevelt, its number of vetoes would have been not 75 but 8,250. And had the President equaled the record of the Supreme Court he would have vetoed not 221 acts in four years but only 2.

Despite the fact that this sort of calculation is open to various statistical objections, the essential facts in the situation are sufficiently clear to demonstrate just how completely misleading was the President's homely metaphor.

But the vitally important aspect of this attack on the Supreme Court lies beyond the inaccuracy of this Presidential metaphor and the explosion of the President's supposed "facts" regarding the inability of the Court to keep abreast of its work. It lies in the fact that the essence of the issue is simply the desire of the President to have his way. Presidential arbitrariness is a fact that cannot be avoided, nor successfully denied. The multitude of devices which are employed as excuses, or as justifications, or as pacifiers of the gullible cannot cloak this central and essential fact in this picture.

Perhaps the most important aspect in the whole situation is whether or not the majority of the American people can be aroused before it is too late, to an understanding of what all these things may mean to this nation
if this unprecedented and un-American Presidential arbitrariness is not curbed before it leads to even more serious consequences than are already observable in the stresses, strains, and struggles now agitating our foolishlydivided people.

If the American people are to receive the necessary protection from this unbridled Presidential arbitrariness, such protection must be found in Congress, particularly in the United States Senate. The people of this country should turn their most earnest attention to that body, and do all in their power to see to it that its members adhere firmly to the principles and structure of Constitutional government, in spirit as well as in letter.

Members of the Rochelle Business and Professional Men's association will meet at the Rochelle Town and Country club for a 6 o'clock dinner
Thursday, June 24.

E. Y. Shaffer of Chicago will be the main speaker of the evening.
Mr. Shaffer is secretary of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce for the Northern Illinois district.

Eleven councils of the Knights of Columbus in northern Illinois cities have been invited to send two four-man teams to participate in the golf frolic at the Rochelle Town and Country Club which will take place next Sunday, June 27.

Teams are expected from La-Salle, Mendota, Sterling, Dixon, Freeport, Galena, Rockford, Belvidere, Aurora, Batavia and DeKalb.

Each council will be represented by an A and B team, and the teams in each division will vie for possession of a cup. A medal will be given to the low-score man of the meet. The prizes have been provided by Romeo Caron and Frank Carney of the local council.

The golfers will enjoy a fried-chicken dinner at the club house at 2 o'clock.

Sunday an elimination contest was held among the members of the Rochelle council of the Knights of Columbus to determine who would be the members of the A and B teams.

OUR ears of today have little use as sound catchers, since they are too flat, but once, when man's life depended on his ability to hear the approach of other animals, he could turn them in different directions, just as a horse does. Today the muscles that made this possible, although still present, are useless.

Firemen, Rescue Squad Battle To Save Baby's Life

Joliet, Ill., June 23.—(AP)—Firemen and a public service company rescue squad joined a physician in a 12-hour battle late Tuesday to save a new-born baby who was unable to breathe. The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Attaway of Elwood, Ill., was brought here to St. Joseph's hospital after four tanks of oxygen had been consumed.

Dr. A. R. Gilbert, who attended the child's birth in the Attaway home last night, observed the child's breathing difficulties at once and for several hours breathed into his mouth until an inhalator squad from the Joliet fire department arrived.

After six more hours the firemen returned to Joliet, confident the child would survive. Dr. Gilbert, however, soon appealed to them again. They were aided by a rescue squad of the gas company until the child was strong enough to be taken to the hospital.

STORIES IN STAMPS

BY I. S. KLEIN

PASTOR TURNED POET

THE parents of Matthias Jochumson directed him toward a business career, but he left college in 1865 as a clergyman and finally turned out to be one of Iceland's most prolific and popular poets. During his pastorate in Iceland, he developed his talent for verse, and soon found himself devoting more time to literature than to his church. Except for a six-year interval, however, when he was editor of a magazine, he held the pulpit until 1900, when he was 65.

At the same time, he was recognized more as a poet than a pastor. For half a century he was the chief poet of Iceland. He translated Shakespeare, Byron and other European poets, composed a great "Robin Hood" epic, besides a vast number of commemorative verses, and wrote several plays. The University of Reykjavik made him honorary Doctor of Divinity, and the city in which he lived made him honorary citizen.

Jochumson died in 1920, at the age of 85. In 1935, on the centennial of his birth, Iceland issued a special stamp in his honor.

CORAL CRANDALL, heroine and senior at Elton College.
DAVID ARMSTRONG, Elton chemistry professor and Coral's husband.
HOYT MARQUIS, Coral's sorority roommate.
HOYT MARQUIS, Coral's one-time fiance.

CHAPTER XIII
THE commencement exercises were almost over. Coral, sitting on the platform with the rest of the graduating class, was beginning to feel too warm in the folds of her academic gown. Her mortar board, set at a jaunty angle on her black curls, seemed tight.

Her thoughts began to wander. How different this Commencement Day was to what she had anticipated a few weeks before! She had been afraid then that she might never even graduate, for even after her innocence and David's had been established in connection with the theft of the process, there had been a faculty committee to face on the subject of her marriage. Dean Mathews, the librarian, and some of the other professors, had wanted to drop her from school in spite of everything, but the words of Professor Maxwell and Professor Bendoff had finally swayed their judgment. She had been given a great deal of advice, some good, kindly and well meant, some acid and disapproving. But in the main everyone had been amazingly generous and understanding.

Then, too, the last of Hoyt's threats had been hanging over her. For many days, even after his father had been notified of his son's part in the theft of the process, she had not known whether or not he would refuse to give her father an extension of time on his loan. Coral shuddered a little at the recollection of those days, when with her graduation day growing nearer and nearer, she saw in its approach only financial catastrophe for her beloved father. But even that had come out all right, she thought happily.

BABY DRANK KEROSENE
Joliet, Ill., June 22.—(AP)—Sidney Gregory, 2, of New Lenox, was in serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital today from the effects of half a glass of kerosene he drank while playing in the kitchen of his parents' home last night.

and honor of presenting a prize of $500 to the student who in his estimation has made the finest record in his or her career at the university. The winner of the Faculty Prize for 1937 is Coral Crandall Armstrong!

The huge auditorium resounded with applause, as Coral, too surprised and touched for coherent speech or thought, allowed herself to be led forward, presented with a long envelope containing the check, and led back again to her seat, the applause still ringing in her ears. The Faculty Prize, the most coveted honor which Elton had to offer, was hers! As she collected her thoughts, she became more and more excited. How proud David would be! But he must have known about it all along. And her parents. Dad and Mother would be so pleased.

THE rest of the exercises passed in a dreamlike fashion. After more words and the announcement of names, her name was called, she stepped forward and received her diploma and degree, and returned to her place. At last all the names had been read. The audience and the students arose. In the back of the auditorium the organ pealed forth the opening bars of the Alma Mater. As she joined in the singing, Coral's eyes stung with sudden tears. Her college days were over.

She found David and her parents waiting together for her outside the building. With them was Professor Maxwell, his silver head inclined politely over her mother's soft blue hat. David and her father were talking together amicably. Her heart glowed at the sight as she approached them.

As she came up to the little group Professor Maxwell saw her first. "Here she is!" he cried. "You should be very proud of your daughter today."

"Indeed we are proud," Mrs. Crandall said, taking Coral by the hand. "I believe this is the happiest day of both our lives."

PROFESSOR MAXWELL laughed. "You're a fortunate family; thrice happy and thrice blessed! I envy all of you. But now I must get back to my house. Some of my old students are here today, and I expect them to call."

Just then President Norton approached them. "Coral, I want you and David and your parents to come to my house for lunch."

After they had accepted, he went on. "Mr. and Mrs. Crandall, won't you come on ahead with me? It's very warm here, and I can guarantee the coolness of my front porch. I'm sure Coral and David are as eager to get out of those hot caps and gowns as I am, so they can change and come over later."

Her parents and President Norton walked off together, and Coral and David strolled off toward the other side of the campus. "Are you happy, darling?" David asked tenderly.

She looked up at him, her eyes shining. "Yes, David. I am happy. There's just one thing lacking. I wish Donna were here. I sometimes think they were too severe, asking her to leave without receiving her degree."

David smiled, and pulled a yellow oblong from his pocket. "You're the most unselfish child alive. I think this is from Donna. Your mother gave it to me before we saw you, thinking she might miss you. A messenger brought it to the sorority house just after you left."

Coral tore open the telegram. "David, listen to this! 'Wish could be with you but sailing at noon for South America with Dad. Good luck and congratulations to you both. Donna.' David! Coral's face was alight with excitement. Hoyt's father is sending him to South America to start over again, too. Do you suppose . . . ?"

"You're an incurable matchmaker, my darling, but who can find as much happiness as we have?"

"Chal caught his hand. 'I hope they do! Oh, darling, doesn't everything seem perfect? An all-summer honeymoon to California for us, then back here next fall. Why, my days at Elton aren't really over. They're just beginning aren't they?'"

"That's how it seems, sweetheart. Are you glad?" David slipped his arm around her. "Think you'll like living in that little house next to Professor Maxwell's . . . and being the wife of a struggling young chemistry prof?"

Coral kissed him. "I'll love it. I'll simply adore it. I love you, David." She chuckled. "And I think I'll make a pretty good wife, if I do say so."

David forgot onlookers and caught her in his arms. "You're that now . . . my co-ed wife." And then, as his lips met hers, "The most wonderful wife in the world."

that comes to the surface so frequently in his conduct on the court.
Here, however, is a little known incident, which may account for part of it.

When McReynolds was a student at Vanderbilt university in Tennessee, he met a girl named Luella Pearson who was attending the Ward-Belmont school. They fell in love, and after McReynolds had completed his law course at Vanderbilt, their engagement was announced.

But Luella Pearson returned to her home at Louisiana, Mo., for a visit, and shortly afterward was taken sick and died. Her death was said to have been a tremendous shock to McReynolds, and each year for some time to come he came to Louisiana, Mo., to visit the Riverview cemetery where she is buried.

Maiden Speech
Florida is back on the map again in the Senate. It was placed there by the state's 37 year old Harvard-educated, rookie Senator Claude Pepper.

Since the death of the veteran, widely beloved Duncan U. Fletcher, chairman of the banking committee, Florida had been very much in the background in the "greatest deliberative body in the world." But that is all changed now since Pepper's stirring maiden speech a few days ago.

The speech was one of the greatest of its kind ever heard in the chamber. First speeches by newcomers are usually very dull and cautious affairs. Pepper's address shattered this precedent. It was extraordinary in brilliance of delivery and stunning effect.

For weeks the Senate had been listening to an almost steady drum-fire of attack from anti-New Deal Democrats. The two days preceding Pepper's speech witnessed a particularly virulent assault on the administration on the relief issue.
In this sullen atmosphere the young Floridian suddenly arose. Few paid much attention to him when he started. Five minutes later all eyes were riveted on him and the Senate was as still as the tomb.

History was being made and the senators and press gallery knew it.
A new leader was taking his place.
With a suavity that was devastating, Pepper subjected the Old Guarders to as searing a tonguelashing as has ever been heard in the Senate. Without using a single offensive term or opprobrious word, he played them as traitors and in-

When the spectacular castigation

from all over the chamber mem-

Mrs. S. G. Jones entertained visitors Sunday, Mrs. Charlotte Mc-Cosh and Mrs. Mary Clark of Mount Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reese, members of a caravan of a motorcycle club of Chicago narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday night while returning to the city. A few miles east of Oregon their machine caught fire, presumably from a backfire,
the couple barely having time to dismount when the gasoline tank exploded. Mr. Reese was burned about the face and head and his clothing caught fire but by quick presence of mind he extinguished the flames by rolling in the grass. His burns while painful were not of a serious nature.
Passing motorists Chicago bound took them home.

Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Chandler and Rev. David A. Richardson attended the picnic of the Ogle County Ministerial Association at the Pines
State Park, Monday.
